To Whom It May Concern:

When Fayzulloh asked me to write this letter, I was very happy to oblige. First and foremost, he's a very hard worker. He is not afraid to tackle large amounts of work nor is he afraid of fast-paced work. During the busy hours, there are lots of orders and he works in a position that requires him to process each one of them. Working well under pressure is an essential skill in these situations and Fayzulloh handles his responsibility with a level head and rarely makes mistakes. On the other hand, he also knows when he is overwhelmed, and he is not too arrogant nor too shy to ask for help. This is crucial in a workplace where responsibility is of utmost importance.

Fayzulloh is also a very committed person. He has been working at this Pizza Pizza store for three and a half years since he was in grade nine. The only times he has taken days off were when he had exams and when his family went on vacation. Other than that, he has come to work at least once every week since he started. Furthermore, he has always been available for extra shifts when someone else could not work in the past. Fayzulloh is one of the most committed people I have worked with.

Finally, I'd like to add that Fayzulloh is a very smart person, he can learn new things very quickly, he is very respectful, has great organizational skills, and is a great person to work with.

Sincerely,

Position: Store Owner
